

Quiz/Test Corrections

If you earned at least a 70% on a quiz or test, you will have the option to do corrections to improve your understanding and your score. If you earned below a 70%, you will be required to do corrections. You must complete the corrections during lunchtime within 5 days for tests and 2 days for quizzes. If you do not complete required corrections, you will be assigned lunch detention to complete them.

Successful completion of corrections will earn  $\frac{1}{2}$  credit back on your score (for example, if you missed 10 points, you could earn back a maximum of 5 points through corrections).

Reason/Problem

- Read the question wrong (thought it was asking something else).
- Careless error, going too fast.
- The materials was in my notes, but I didn't remember it.
- The material was in the text, but I didn't remember it.
- The material was discussed in class, but I didn't remember it.
- I didn't understand this material.
- I didn't know what one of the words meant.
- I had no idea this information was going to be covered on the test.
- The material was in my handouts, but I didn't remember it.
- The material was covered in lab work, but I didn't remember it.
- I thought I knew/understood this material, but drew a blank during the test.
- Other. Be sure to write in the reason; not just "Other."
